H.M. KING GEORGE'S MESSAGE.

E are fighting for a worthy purpose, and we intend not to lay down our arms until that has been fully accomplished.

This is not merely a material, it is also a spiritual conflict; upon its issues everything that contains the promise of hope, that leads to emancipation and a fuller liberty for the millions who make up the mass of mankind, will be found sooner or later to depend.

The Prime Minister.

Keep the Flag Flying.

Always say a kind word, if you can, if only that it may come in perhaps with singular opportuneness, entering some mournful man's darkened room, like a beautiful fire-fly, whose happy circumvolutions he cannot but watch, forgetting his many troubles.

Friends in Council.

They only the victory win
Who have fought the good fight and have vanquished the demon that tempts us within;
Who have held to their faith, unseduced by the prize that the world holds on high;
Who have dared for a high cause to suffer,
resist, fight—if need be to die.

Actions, looks, words, steps, form the alphabet by which you may spell character.

DON'T FLINCH

There are no more precious and true pages in history than the records of men who have faced unpopularity, odium, hatred, ridicule, detraction in obedience to an inward voice, never lost courage and good nature.

J. Burroghs.

BE TRUE

Let the world be better, brighter, For your having trod its way; Let your light be seen afar Ere sinks down life's little day.

Scatter seeds of love and kindness, As you tread the heavenward road You will find them all again In the paradise of God.

Sister Dora.

Dreams pass; work remains. They tell us that not a sound has ever ceased to vibrate through space; that not a ripple has ever been lost upon the ocean. Much more is it true that not a true thought, nor a pure resolve, nor a loving act has ever gone forth in vain.

F. W. Robertson.

FIGHT THE FIGHT

In God's own might
We quit us for the coming fight.
And, strong in Him whose cause is ours,
In conflict with unholy powers,
We grasp the weapons He has given—
The Light and Truth and Love of Heaven.

1. G. Whittier.

Do thy 'day's work, dare refuse no help thereto, Since help refused is hindrance sought and found.

Wherever's will to do, there's plenty to be done.

R. Browning.

God give us men. A time like this demands Clear minds, pure hearts, true faith, and ready hands:

Men who possess opinions and a will, Men whom desire for power does not kill. Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy, Men who have honour, men who will not lie; Tall men, sun-crowned men, who live above the

In public duty and in private thinking.

O. W. Holmes.

I WOULD

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure for there are those who care;
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave, for there is much to dare;
I would be friend of all—then, for the friendless,
I would be giving and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up—and love and lift.

Things of price are bought with pain,
The pleasing way is not the right;
He that would conquer Heaven must fight.

YOUR DUTY AND MINE

Duty never needs pursuing,
Always it awaits your doing,
Though it may perhaps seem but a common task:

From the common-place concession There will come Divine fruition— Greater, grander, gladder than your heart could ask. KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

GIVE THE BEST

Love is the greatest thing that we can give each other. We must always be giving each other bread or money or jewels or books or counsel; and then we think we have accomplished something. But love is the real gift: no other can take its place, but it can take the place of all the rest.

May Kendall.

The longer I live, the more certain I am that the great difference between men, between the feeble and the powerful, the great and the insignificant, is energy, invincible determination. A purpose once fixed—then death or victory.

T. Fowell Buxton.

ij.

You must live each day at your very best; The work of the world is done by few; God asks that a part be done by you.

Have a purpose and do with your utmost might; You will finish your work on the other side, When you wake in His likeness, satisfied.

NO EASE TO PAIN COMES FROM

There are some sorrows which cannot share with others and which must be borne by ourselves alone; yet we know that there is unspeakable comfort in having near us, even then, those who love us, and who, if they can do no more, can at least watch with us.

D. Macleod.

Can you do a kind deed—do it, From despair some soul to save; Bless each day as you pass through it, Marching onward to the grave.

Days for deeds are few, my brother, Then to-day fulfil your vow; If you mean to help another, Do not dream it—do it now.

If you have a kind word—say it:

Throbbing hearts soon sink to rest;
If you owe a kindness—pay it,

Life's sun hurries to the west.

PENSIVE MEMORIES

Thou knowest all the present—each temptation,
Each toilsome duty, each foreboding fear.
All to myself assigned of tribulation,
Or to beloved ones, than self more dear;
All pensive memories, as I journey on,
Longing for vanished smiles and voices gone.

I. Borthwick.

E

Rise! for the day is passing,
And you lie dreaming on;
The others have buckled their armour,
And forth to the fight are gone:
A place in the ranks awaits you,
Each man has some part to play;
The Past and the Future are nothing,
In the face of the stern To-day.

A. A. Procter.

It is moral courage that characterises the highest order of manhood and womanhood, the courage to seek and speak the truth; the courage to be just; the courage to be honest; the courage to resist temptation; the courage to do one's duty.

DUTY AND PRAYER

In evil times it fares best with them that are most careful about duty and least about safety.

43

Cometh sunshine after rain,
After mourning joy again;
After heavy bitter grief,
Dawneth surely sweet relief!
And my soul, who from her height
Sank to realms of woe and night,
Wingeth now to heaven her flight.

Though to-day may not fulfil
All thy hopes, have patience still;
For perchance to-morrow's sun
Sees thy happier days begun.
As God willeth march the hours,
Bringing joy at last in showers,
And whate'er we asked is ours.

I came here to perform my duty and I neither do nor can enjoy satisfaction in anything excepting the performance of my duty to my own country.

BE TRUE

He's true to God who's true to man; wherever wrong is done

To the humblest and the weakest, 'neath the all-beholding sun,

That wrong is also done to us; and they are slaves most base

Whose love of right is for themselves, and not for all their race.

I. R. Lowell.

Be noble—that is more than wealth,
Do right—that's more than place;
Then in the spirit there is health
And gladness in the face;
Then thou art thyself at one
And no man hating, fearest none.

George Macdonald.

Be noble! And the nobleness that lies In other men, sleeping, but never dead, Will rise in majesty to meet thine own! Then thou wilt see it gleam in many eyes, Then will pure light around thy path be shed, And thou shalt never more be sad and lone!

J. R. Lowell.

DULL THOUGHTS

If we do not want dull thoughts to come, we must keep 'em away like I keep the weeds out o' my bit of garden. I fill the beds so full of flowers that there isn't any room for weeds.

Mark Guy Pearse.

ON ACTIVE SERVICE

It is for active service that soldiers are drilled and trained and fed and armed! That is why you and I are out in the world—not to prepare only to go out of it some day, but to serve it

Whatever a man's station in life, if he be in earnest, his personal influence must count.

OUIT YOU LIKE MEN

Let us take issue with desponding and break a lance against fear and rejoice in to-day. Let a cheerful confidence in our countrymen, our institutions, in our means of civilisation and comradeship take rest in our hearts and live in our families. Take courage and have courage.

Have you flowers for the dead? While the lips are red Send the flowers; While the hand can hold And the heart be told Sweet words in its fettered hours.

G. Klingle.

OUR RESERVE POWER

In a noisy and confused time like ours, it does seem that most of us have need to be reminded of, and will be the better for bearing in mind, the reserve of strength and power which lies quietly at the nation's call, outside the whirl and din of public life, and entirely ignored by the columns of the daily press.

43

Things can never go badly wrong
If the heart be true and the love be strong,
For the mist if it comes, and the weeping
rain

Will be changed by the love into sunshine again.

žž.

The school of suffering is the largest in the world, but, unlike other schools, no one enters it voluntarily; it is universally shunned, yet it is the best of all schools. It furnishes the highest grade of instruction, it disciplines character, and helps to build it up into solid and noble proportions. The strongest and ripest characters are those which have suffered most.

JUSTICE

It often falls in course of common life
That right sometimes is overborne with wrong,
The advance of gold or guile or strife
That weakens her, and makes the other strong;
But justice, though her doom she do prolong,
Yet, at the last, will make her own cause strong.

Spenser.

There is no success for the man
Who vacillates;
Who shirks responsibilities;
Who is discouraged by reverses;
Who expects nothing but failure;
Who is always anticipating trouble;
Who never puts his heart into anything;
Who is constantly grumbling about his work;
Who thinks the times are always out of joint, and that he was not born at the right moment, or in the right place.

The wise and active conquer difficulties by daring to attempt them; sloth and folly shiver and shrink at sight of toil and hazard, and make the impossibility they fear.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

THE MUSIC OF SORROW

It is often in sorrow that our lives are taught the sweetest songs. There are human lives that never in the calm of quiet days yield the music that is in them. It is only when the breezes of care and trouble sweep over them that they give out soft musings of song.

The happiness in life consists in something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.

媝

There is no greater honour to a man than to suffer for the sake of that which he thinks and knows to be righteous.

Hope is grief's best music.

Look not mournfully back into the past, it cometh not again. Wisely improve the present, it is thine. Go forth to meet the future without fear, and with a manly heart.

Hope is the thing with feathers That perches on the soul; And sings the tune without the words, And never stops at all.

FIGHT THE GOOD FIGHT

If there be no enemy, no fight; if no fight, no victory; if no victory, no crown.

43

Hope softens sorrows, brightens plain surroundings, and eases a hard lot. It is grief's best music.

Be strong to hope, O heart!
Though day is bright,
The stars can only shine
In the dark night.
Be strong, O heart of mine,
Look towards the light!

Be strong to bear, O heart! Nothing is vain; Strive not, for life is care, And God sends pain, Heaven is above, and there Rest will remain!

A. A. Procter.

It is not enough to be a man; the responsibilities of manhood must be discharged.

OVERCOME

Some men only require a great difficulty set in their way to exhibit the force of their character and genius.

S. Smiles.

RIGHT versus MIGHT.

HAT better or higher cause, whether we succeed or failand we are going not to fail but to succeed-what higher cause can arouse and enlist the best energies of a free people than to be engaged at one and the same time in the vindication of international good faith, the protection of the weak against the violence of the strong, and in the assertion of the best ideals of all the free communities in all the ages of time and in every part of the world against the encroachments of those who believe, and who preach, and who practise the religion of force?

The Prime Minister.

DOING ONE'S DUTY

Let it make no difference to thee whether thou art cold or warm, if thou art doing thy duty and whether thou art drowsy or satisfied with sleep and whether ill-spoken of or praised.

ŧ)

Courage, brother, do not stumble,
Though thy path be dark as night,
There's a star to guide the humble,
Trust in God and do the right.
Though the way be long and dreary
And its ending out of sight,
Foot it bravely—strong or weary,
Trust in God and do the right.

OUR ARMY AND NAVY.

EVER had a people more or richer sources of encouragement and inspiration. Let us realise, first of all, that we are fighting as a United Empire in a cause worthy of the highest traditions of our race. Let us keep in mind the patient and indomitable seamen who never relax for a moment night or day, their stern vigil on the lonely sea. Let us keep in mind our gallant troops, who to-day, after a fortnight's continuous fighting under conditions which would try the mettle of the best army that ever took the field, maintain not only an undefeated but an unbroken front.

The Prime Minister.

MEN WANTED

Give us men!

Men from every rank:

Men of thought and reading,

Men of light and leading,

Free and fresh and frank,

England's wealth and welfare speeding;

Men of faith and not of faction,

Men of lofty aim and action:

Give us men, I say again,

Give us men!

Give us men!
Strong and stalwart ones:
Men whom purest honour fires,
Men who trample self beneath them,
Only let their Country wreath them
As her worthy sons,
Worthy of their sires!
Men who never shame their mothers:
Men who never fail their brothers;
True, however false are others;
Give us men, I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!

Men who, when the tempest gathers,
Grasp the standard of their fathers,
In the thickest fight:
Let the cowards cringe and falter,

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

MEN WANTED-Continued

Men who strike for home and altar,
God defend the right!
True to truth, though lorn and lonely,
Tender—as the brave are only;
Give us men, I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!

Men, whose lives reflect the beauty
Of the saints of olden time;
Men who know and do their duty,
As from rock to rock they climb:
If they stumble, born of woman,
All the humbler, all the stronger
Haply struggling on the longer;
Not angelic, nobly human,
Very men of flesh and blood,
Yet of heaven's own brotherhood,
Men of God;
Give us men, I say again,
Give us men!

E. H. Bickersteth. Late Bishop of Exeter (by per.).

E. Garrett.

THE MEETING OF SORROW

Every day of meeting sorrow superbly makes the life more grand. Every tear that falls from one's own eye gives a deeper tenderness of look and touch of word, that shall soothe another's woe. Sorrow is not given to us alone that we may mourn. It is given that, having felt, suffered, wept, we may be able to understand, love, and bless.

A. R. Brown.

OUR DUTY.

EANWHILE, let us go, each of us to his or her appropriate part in the great common task.

We must learn to take long views, and to cultivate above all other qualities those of patience, endurance and stead-fastness.

SERVING OTHERS

Nothing so increases the degree of energy as the glow and ardour and joy of doing some little service for another. In this lies the real blessedness, the real luxury of life.

Lilian Whiting.

¥.3

You have no enemies, you say?
Alas, my friend, the boast is poor;
He who has mingled in the fray
Of duty that the brave endure,
Must have made foes! if you have none,
Small is the work that you have done,
You've hit no traitor on the hip,
You've dashed no cup from perjured lip,
You've never turned the wrong to right,
You've been a coward in the fight.

Charles Mackay.

媝

Kind words do not cost much. They never blister the tongue or lips. We never heard of any mental trouble arising from this quarter. Though they do not cost much, yet they accomplish much. They make other people goodnatured. They also produce their own image on men's souls, and a beautiful image it is.

Blaise Pascal.

BE BRAVE AND CHEERFUL

My days with toil are weary,
My nights with care oppressed,
I work and wait with heavy heart
For I long for peace and rest.
I'm tired of the rush and hurry,
Of the labour and care of the day,
Of the pain, the heartache, the worry
That fritters our lives away.

But a ray of light in the gloaming,
When the clouds hide the wearying days,
Brings with it this comfort assuring,
God leads us through devious ways.
So I'll try to be brave and cheerful,
With my life to do my best,
To bear with the cares and the burdens,
And leave with God the rest.

What matter, I or they?
Mine or another's day?
So the right word be said.

A VOICE FROM THE PAST.

ET us recall the memories of the great men and the great deeds of the past, commemorated some of them in monuments which we see around us, not forgetting the dying message of the younger Pitt-his last public utterance, made at the Mansion House, "England has saved herself by her exertions and will, as I trust, save Europe by her example." The England of those days gave a noble answer to his appeal and did not sheath the sword until after nearly twenty years of fighting the freedom of Europe was secured. Let us go and do likewise.

There is a compensation for everything that befalls us in this life. Who can tell what is the pleasure of rest till he has felt tired? or who finds any enjoyment in eating but the hungry? And can anyone enjoy the treasure of health until he has passed through weary hours of sickness and nights of languishing? So it seems to me there is a law by which out of every evil which overtakes us comes some good, the latter following the former as surely as day follows night.

Service implies self-giving. There is service which is just self-satisfaction, pleasing to the taste for doing and meddling, and there is a service which is exactly measured to its pay. If thou wouldst win, keep still the goal in view; Who looks this way and that, travels not true; Mark well the rule; he that would reach his home,

Out of himself and all, with a whole heart must come.

FOR KING AND COUNTRY.

AY what men will there is something more truly christian in the man who gives his time, his strength, his life if need be for another, not himself—whether he call it his King, his country, or his colours—than in all the asceticism, the fasts, the humiliations and confessions which have ever been made; and the spirit of giving one's life without calling it a sacrifice is found nowhere so truly as in England.

Florence Nightingale.

"To-morrow never comes," says the old proverb. And as certain is it that yesterday never returns. Therefore let us do good and be good to-day.

G. Arundel.

43

If thou canst plan a noble deed, And never flag till it succeed, Though in the strife thy heart should bleed; Whatever obstacles control, Thine hour will come. Go on, true soul.

Thou'lt win the prize, thou'lt reach the goal.

Charles Mackay.

A sound mind in a sound body . . . is the most useful instrument wherewith to serve God.

Then welcome each rebuff

That turns earth's smoothness rough,
Each sting that bids not sit nor stand, but go!

R. Browning.

Let us be patient! These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benedictions
Assume this dark disguise!

H. W. Long fellow.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

We long for great events, for imposing duties. We could make something of our life, we think, if we had not such small, sordid cares and tasks. We ask for heroic duties, but the duties that lie to our hands are heroic. The so-called heroic occasions are, after all, often easier, and therefore less heroic, than the commonplace trials that daily tell the stuff of which we are made.

Hugh Black.

Take up thy burden, child of weary toil, Dwell not complainingly upon thy lot; Let industry be numbed by no recoil,

Let dead despondency thy soul not blot; Envy and sloth be resolute to foil;

Where'er life's wants press most, regard that spot

As being unto thee the battlefield Where heroes conquer, and where cowards yield.

W. S. Sandes.

63

It is ignoble to sit down and repine, or even to endure passively limitations which energy and faith would easily surmount.

Lilian Whiting.

Take pains, take trouble. Whatever you do, do thoroughly. Whatever you begin, finish. It may not seem to be worth your while at the moment to be so very painstaking, so very exact. In after years you will find it was worth your while.

C. Kingsley.

Methinks I heard Hope sweetly singing, Singing in an undertone; Singing, as though God had taught her, It is better further on.

Honour to those whose words or deeds Thus help us in our daily needs, And by their overflow Raise us from what is low.

H. W. Long fellow.

Sympathy is the sufferer's physician, the Florence Nightingale of the domestic circle, a cordial in the hour of sorrow, an angel of comfort when hope has fled, the strongest cord which binds friend to friend, a refreshing stream springing from the fountain of love.

E have behind us and on our side all the moral influences of the civilised world. We have on our side the incalculable forces of human courage and endurance—forces far greater than any material or mechanical means that can be brought against us, and, above all, we have the consciousness that with the success of our arms is inextricably bound up that which is above all things most valuable to the future of humanity—the sacredness of international law and the rights of international freedom.

Can any one doubt, whether it be short or long, that in this cause we shall triumph?

Hon. A. J. Balfour.

There is no victory possible for boy or man without humility and magnanimity, and no humility or magnanimity possible without an ideal.

Tom Hughes.

So, if the now seem cruel and hard,
Endure it with thoughts of the afterward;
And be sure that each task is clearly set
To brace thee for other tasks harder yet.
Train the stout muscles of the will
In the daily grapples with daily ill,
Till, strong to wrestle, and firm to abide,
Thou shalt smile at the turbulent Jordan tide.

S. Coolidge.

God gives to every man

Any coward can fight a battle when he's sure of winning, but give me the man who has pluck to fight when he's sure of losing.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

My brother, the brave man has to give his life away. Give it, I advise thee—give it, like a royal heart; let the price be nothing. Thou hast then, in a certain sense, got All for it! The heroic man has to do so, in all times and circumstances.

Let him not boast who puts his armour on As he who puts it off, the battle done; Study yourselves, and most of all note well Wherein kind Nature meant you to excel.

H. W. Longfellow.

Even our failures are a prophecy,
Even our yearnings and our bitter tears.
After that fair and true we cannot grasp;
As patriots who seem to die in vain

G. Eliot.

Not stirring words, nor gallant deeds alone—Plain, patient work fulfilled that length of life; Duty, not glory—service, not a throne, Inspired his effort, set for him the strife.

A. H. Cloweh.

A good character is a coat of triple steel, giving security to the wearer, protection to the oppressed, and inspiring the oppressor with awe.

Fear to do base, unworthy things, is valour. If they be done to us—to suffer them Is valour, too.

Ben Jonson.

Art thou little, do that little well, and for thy conduct know

The biggest man can do his biggest work no better than just so.

I. S. Blackie.

True courage is not incompatible with nervousness, and heroism does not mean the absence of fear, but the conquest of it.

Henry van Dyke,

HE British Empire is now fighting for its existence. I want every citizen to understand this cardinal fact, for only from a clear conception of the vast importance of the issue at stake can come the great national, moral impulse, without which Governments, War Ministers, and even navies and armies, can do but little. We have enormous advantages in our resources of men and material, and in that wonderful spirit of ours which has never understood the meaning of defeat. All these are great assets, but they must be used judiciously and effectively.

Lord Kitchener.

Noble examples stir up to noble actions, and the very history of large public souls inspires a man with generous thoughts.

Seneca.

Chivalry means far more than reverence of men for women. It means reverence of strength for weakness wheresoever found.

W. C. Gannett.

43

What would this world be without Hope? It is the light in the darkness, joy in sorrow, and strength in weakness; without it the world would be desolate indeed. Its beams are like a great searchlight shining in our hearts and brightening up every corner, until we mount, as with wings, over difficulties and circumstances, and triumph glorious over the enemy, Despair.

YOUR NICHE

Find your purpose and fling your life out to it, and the loftier your purpose is, the more sure you will be to make the world richer with every enrichment of yourself.

P. Brooks.

Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control, These three alone lead life to sovereign power. Yet not for power (power of herself Would come un-called for), but to live by law, Acting the law we live by without fear; And, because right is right, to follow right Were wisdom in the scorn of consequence.

Tennyson.

They are the best comforters and helpers of their fellow-men who go about with large hopefulness and cheerfulness in their own hearts, trying to put a little more hope and cheer into the life of everyone they meet. What most people really need in their troubles, is not to have the burden lifted off, but to have their own hearts strengthened with fresh hope and cheer, so that they may overcome in their struggles.

J. R. Miller.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

THE PATHWAY OF DUTY

And, as the path of duty is made plain,
May grace be given that I may walk therein,
Not like the hireling for his selfish gain,
But, cheerful, in the light around me thrown,
Walking as one to pleasant service led,
Doing God's will as if it were my own.
Yet trusting not in mine, but in His strength alone.

J. G. Whittier.

Wait till the trial is over,

For as the gold is tried by fire,
So a heart must be tried by pain.

A. A. Procter.

It matters not how deep intrenched the wrong, How hard the battle goes, the day how long. Faint not, fight on. To-morrow comes the song.

It is time to be brave, it is time to be true, It is time to be finding the thing you can do; It is time to put by the dream and the sigh, And work for the cause that is holy and high.

BE. EARNEST

God! fight we not within a cursed world Whose very air teems thick with leagued fiends? Each word we speak has infinite effects-Each soul we pass must go to heaven or hell-And this our one chance through eternity To drop and die, like dead leaves in the brake! Be earnest, earnest! Do what thou dost as if the stake were Heaven, And that thy last deed ere the Judgment-day! When all's done, nothing's done. There's rest above-

Below let work be death, if work be love. C. Kingsley.

A RESOLVE

I am only one, But still I am one; I cannot do everything, But still I can do something; And, because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do The something I can do.

Sorrow and trouble either soften the heart or harden it.

IBERTY was infinitely precious to our fathers, because it bore the marks of sacrifice. It was crimsoned with the red stain of their own blood. We are inclined to hold our liberties cheaply because they cost us nothing.

I. H. Jowett.

SORROW'S LESSON

Do not cheat thy heart, and tell her, "Grief will pass away;
Hope for fairer things to-morrow,
And forget to-day."
Tell her, if you will, that sorrow
Need not come in vain;
Tell her that the lesson taught her
Far outweighs the pain.

LOYALTY

Love thou thy land, with love far brought From out the storied past, and used Within the present, but transfused Thro' future time by power of thought.

True love turn'd round on fixed poles, Love that endures not sordid ends For English natures, freemen, friends, Thy brothers and immortal souls.

YOUR DUTY

Do thy duty: that is best; Leave unto thy God the rest.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING

Are you in earnest? Seize this very minute; What you can do, or dream you can, begin it: Boldness has genius, power, and magic in it. Only engage, and then the mind grows heated; Begin, and then the work will be completed.

THE COMING FIGHT

Our fathers to their graves have gone, Their strife is past—their triumph won; But sterner trials await the race Which rises in their honoured place— A moral warfare with the crime And folly of an evil time.

I. G. Whittier.

GIVE YOUR BEST

Give your best—
Give your best on each occasion
Right foot foremost, do not shirk
What is irksome, dull, or trivial.
Brace yourself to do the work
That is portioned for your doing.
With your might and for the rest
God will mark and bless the effort,
Give your best.

61

DETERMINATION OF CHARACTER

Things that are worth the winning Must ever at cost be won;
A feeble wish can accomplish naught,
And see no great thing done;
They that are wise press onward,
They who are strong ascend;
So be not stilled by a great defeat,
But begin again, my friend.

M. Farningham.
